Dear Friends of Israel,

BY FREDI WINKLER

The transformation of Hagia Sophia into a mosque seems to have a significant symbolic meaning for Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan. It was the largest and most important Greek Orthodox Church before the Ottomans conquered Constantinople in 1453. Hagia Sophia was of similar significance for Greek Orthodox Christians, as St. Peter's Basilica in Rome has been for Catholics. The transformation of the magnificent church into a mosque proved to be a traumatic event for Greek Orthodox Christians, but for the Ottomans, a symbol of victory over Christians. This remained so until 1934, after the Turkish Empire had come to an inglorious end in World War I, and Turkey became a newly formed, secular state under Ataturk. At that time, the imposing historic building from the Byzantine period was then converted into a museum. Now Erdogan wants to undo that. What does this signify?

Erdogan said on his website: "The resurgence of Hagia Sophia as a mosque is the prelude to the liberation of Al-Aqsa in Jerusalem. It is the footprint of the will of all Muslims worldwide, and the resurgence of the fire of hope of all Muslims and of all humiliated, oppressed, and exploited." This proclamation makes one pause.

In his message, Erdogan talks not only about freedom for the Al-Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem, but also, depending on which language it is translated into, about a revival of Islam from Bukhara in Uzbekistan to Andalusia in Spain.

The connection of Hagia Sophia to Al-Aqsa in Jerusalem shows that Ankara's ambitions extend far beyond Hagia Sophia.

In Israel, developments in Turkey are being watched with concern. It was hoped that the relationship with Turkey could be rebalanced, as it was once very good. But by now, Israel has realized that this can no longer be accomplished. So far, Israel has avoided confrontation with Turkey, because trade relations are still very important and extensive for both sides.

Israel's gas discoveries in the Mediterranean Sea, and the planned gas pipeline from the Mediterranean to Europe, in cooperation with Cyprus and Greece, have been met with resentment by the Turks. Turkey began its own drilling in the disputed waters of the Mediterranean, and wants to expand its dominion in the sea. Turkey's interference in the civil war in Libya is yet another attempt to expand its influence in the Mediterranean.

Israel has always seen Iran as the great threat—and rightly so, because Iran has been talking bluntly about the destruction of the Jewish State for many years—but has somewhat ignored developments in Turkey. Although Turkey and Iran have been rather hostile in the past, common purpose and ideology have brought them closer together. This development, of course, must be extremely alarming and worrisome for Israel.

Another cause for concern for Israel is the fact that the United States has so far failed to fully recognize this threat from Turkey. President Trump's policy is to stay out of conflicts that do not directly affect America, and to bring its own troops home. A policy that can be understood, but which would particularly cost Israel very dearly. The following words from the Bible are a strong consolation in this situation: "...He who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep" (Psalm 121:4).

With this confidence, I greet you warmly with Shalom from Israel.

Revelation 15 and Israel's Future

BY NORBERT LIETH

In Revelation 15, John sees a panorama of the final judgment of the end times. Related to this is the restoration and redemption of the people of Israel. An exposition.

“Which stilleth the noise of the seas, the noise of their waves, and the tumult of the people” (Psalm 65:7).

As athletes prepare for the starting gun; as soldiers prepare for the attack; as sailors hoist the sails to cast off; so the seven angels will prepare for the final judgments of God in the end time: “And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God” (Rev 15:1). In conjunction with this, in the Apostle John’s vision, “I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God” (Rev 15:2).

The scenery brings to mind several “seas” in the Bible. First, it is suggestive of the large wash-basin in front of the temple, which was also called a sea: “And he made a molten sea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other:

it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about” (1 Kings 7:23). Then, it reminds us of the Red Sea that Israel crossed through to be free. After passing through it, the Israelites sang a song with Moses (cf. Rev 15:3-4). We also know of the “Sea of Nations”: “Which stilleth the noise of the seas, the noise of their waves, and the tumult of the people” (Ps 65:7). And furthermore, we know that the anti-Christian world ruler comes from the Sea of Nations (Rev 13:1), in contrast to the Antichrist, who comes from the earth (Eretz Israel: Rev 13:11). [Editor’s note: This is Mr. Lieth’s personal interpretation, which defers from most who believe the first beast is the Antichrist, and the second the False Prophet.]

Revelation 4:6 references the glass sea: “And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.” This sea could well mean the Sea of Nations that is before the throne of God, and which is seen from the perspective of the omnipresent One. Everything is in God’s presence; everything is in His sight; the whole world is revealed to Him; and He penetrates and sees through everything. The glory of God is enthroned over the whole earth. No being is invisible to Him.

This sea is infused with fire, which indicates the judgment. The redeemed stand by the sea; they are no longer in it. They have been saved by the blood of the Lamb. In the Great Tribulation, they went through the fire of suffering (baptism of fire), and the torrents of the Antichrist’s waters washed over them. But, the fire couldn’t scorch them, and the water couldn’t drown them (Isa 43:2). Now, the overcomers are no longer at sea, but they are liberated and look back triumphantly from above. “And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints. Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest” (Rev 15:3-4).

Just as Israel sang a song with Moses after crossing the Red Sea (Ex 15:1), it happens again. The Egyptians were judged in the sea, and Israel was liberated by the blood of the Lamb and by the passage through the sea. It is similar here. The world is judged, but the overcomers are saved by the blood of the Lamb, through the Tribulation.

Revelation is proof that the Jews still have a central role in God's plan for the salvation of the world. It all comes full circle in Revelation. The first song that we find in the Bible is the song of Moses and the Israelites in Exodus 15. Additionally, we're introduced to another of Moses' songs in Deuteronomy 32, which he performed together with Joshua before the people (31:30; 32:44). And now, the first and last songs of the Bible are mentioned together in Revelation. This points us to the following: The song of Moses is connected to the song of the Lamb; it retains its meaning. It starts and ends with Israel, and the goal is the Lamb. Through this, God shows us how everything belongs together, and nothing is forsaken. The prophetic calling of Moses was to focus on Jesus. Moses without Jesus is unthinkable.

We see through both songs that the Old and New Testaments form a unified whole. The song of Moses in Deuteronomy 32 gives a complete overview of Israel's history. The preceding verses (Deut 31:29-30) show that it's about the end of days. The song in Deuteronomy 32 is divided into the following sections: verses 1-6 describe God's greatness and faithfulness. Verses 7-14: Israel's early history. Verses 15-19: the time of the prophets. Verses 20-21: God withdraws from His people. Verses 22-33: God scatters His people and abandons them to persecution. Verses 34-36: The end times are approaching, both the day of God's mercy, as well as His vengeance. Verses 37-42: judgment in the time of Revelation. Verse 43: The final blessing and redemption of Israel.

“And after that I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened: And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever. And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled” (Rev 15:5-8).

The heavenly temple that is opened is the original, the highest dwelling place of God. The earthly temple and the tabernacle were depictions of it. The angels are dressed in a priestly manner and perform a holy, just, and priestly service. They are in the service of the King. The golden bowls of the seven messengers correspond to the vessels used in the tent to scatter the blood (Ex 27:3). This shows that the courts are all just and belong to the holiness of God.

The cloud of smoke and the fact that no one can enter the temple make us think of Jeremiah's time: “Thou hast covered how people act when they are grieving?

The realization that the people of Israel will come to in the last days, according to Revelation 15 and Deuteronomy 32, is remarkable. What a wonderful confession of God and the Lamb, which they've been led to through the Tribulation! For millennia the Jewish people resisted it, refused to admit it, denied it, mocked it, portrayed Jesus as Beelzebub, cursed and persecuted Him and His followers, ignored Isaiah 53 in their Scripture readings...and now this confession to the Lamb.

This is reminiscent of people who didn't want to know anything about Jesus for a long time, and later praise Him for everything. It can happen again and again that people who were previously opposed to Christ convert and become His confessors.

thyself with a cloud, that our prayer should not pass through" (Lam 3:44). The time of God's final wrath has come, when He veils Himself in His unapproachable glory and completes the judgment. God withdraws and only reveals Himself through that judgment. Perhaps it is also to be understood as a hint that God has no pleasure in judgment, but that He must do it for His righteousness. It was said before in Lamentations: "For he doth not afflict willingly nor grieve the children of men" (3:33). Yes, He wraps Himself up, isolates, and no one is allowed to come near Him. Doesn't this also remind one of

Jerusalem at the Time of Destruction

In the 1970s, prominent archaeologist Nahman Avi-gad, who was conducting excavations in the Old City of Jerusalem, came across a small complex in the Jewish Quarter.

The structure, which became renowned as “the Burnt House,” turned out to be one of the most meaningful testimonies of how the city lived, and fell, in the first century— the house of a priestly family razed when the Romans captured Jerusalem and destroyed the Temple in 70 CE.

However, the tradition had started centuries earlier, after the first Jewish Temple was destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 BCE.

Half a century after the discovery of the Burnt House, today a popular museum, a lot more is known about what Jerusalem looked like and how its people lived on the eves of those days of destruction.

‘WE HAVE A VACCINE’

Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu spoke with the director of the Israel Institute for Biological Research, Prof. Shmuel Shapira, to congratulate him on the development of a vaccine for the coronavirus and the beginning of human trials for the vaccine during the Jewish High Holidays.

Prime Minister Netanyahu directed that the process be continued ahead of the completion of the trials and the production of the vaccine so that Israel will have safe and effective vaccines for all residents of Israel by the end of the first quarter of 2021. The IIBR’s rate of progress until now has been in keeping with the timetables determined at the outset by the National Security Council (NSC), the Defense Ministry and the Health Ministry.

"We have extensive knowledge about both moments because destructions have the ability to freeze the instant in time," Tel Aviv University Prof. Yuval Gadot told The Jerusalem Post. He is the co-director of the Givati Parking Lot Excavation of the City of David by the Temple Mount.

"From the archaeological perspective, a destruction leaves remains that are much clearer than those that are the result of a process where a site is gradually abandoned or reused," he said. "The more radical the devastation is, the more numerous and revealing are the traces it leaves behind."

"This is one of the reasons we know less about the Babylonian conquest compared with the Roman one: It appears that the Babylonians did not destroy everything at the same level and with the same intensity than the Romans did."

"Even though we do not have any archaeological evidence for the First Temple, we know that the Temple Mount was the city's focal point, and we believe that the palace of the king was also very close to it," he said. "Over the decades, archaeologists have uncovered remains of imposing public buildings, a sophisticated bureaucracy and writing system, a rich material culture."

"Recently, archaeologists even discovered a fountain with running water in the Western Wall tunnel," said Dr. Guy D. Stiebel, senior lecturer at TAU. "The city was larger than the Old City today. The palace of the king stood not far from the area of Jaffa Gate, surrounded by gardens. We know that the priests and the ruling class lived in large houses and were heavily influenced by the Roman customs."

As the archaeologists pointed out, the traces of Jerusalem's past are all over the city. And 2,000 years later, Jerusalem has not ceased to represent a symbol and an attraction to people and visitors from all over the world.

-www.jpost.com, 28 July 2020

Commentary: The prophecy of the destruction of the temple is found in Matthew 24:1-2: "And Jesus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to show him the buildings of the temple. And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down." That was fulfilled in the year 70 AD, when Roman forces conquered Jerusalem and destroyed the second temple.

Will there be a third temple? Jesus makes vague reference to it in Mark 13:14: "But when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) then let them that be in Judaea flee to the mountains." We note the words, "standing where it ought not." This could indicate that a third temple will be built within or without the temple compound, which many believe will take place during the reign of Antichrist.

ISRAEL

Kingdom of Judah Government Compound Found

Uncovered only three kilometers (1.8 mile) outside the Old City, the compound is believed by Israel Antiquities Authority archaeologists to have served as an administrative center during the reigns of Judean kings Hezekiah and Menashe (8th century to the middle of the 7th century BCE).

Over 120 jar handles stamped 2,700 years ago with ancient Hebrew script seal impressions were discovered at the site, clearly indicating the location's use as a storage and tax center, according to an IAA press release. Prevalent among the stamped inscriptions is "LMLK," "LamMeLeKh," or "Belonging to the King," a way of marking that the food-stuffs stored in the jars had been tithed to the Judean ruler.

"This is one of the most significant discoveries from the period of the Kings in Jerusalem made in recent years. At the site we excavated, there are signs that governmental activity managed and distributed food supplies not only for shortage but administered agricultural surplus amassing commodities and wealth," said IAA excavation co-directors Sapir and Nathan Ben-Ari in a press release.

"The archaeological discoveries at Arnona identify the site as a key site—the most important in the history of the final days of the Kingdom of Judah and of the return to Zion decades after the destruction of the Kingdom. This site joins a number of other key sites uncovered in the area of Jerusalem which were connected to the centralized administrative system of the Kingdom of Judah from its peak until its destruction," said Dr. Yuval Baruch, the IAA's Jerusalem District Archaeologist.

Usually the ancient Hebrew LMLK inscription appears above the sun disc; in the case of the Arnona impressions and also some of those found at excavations elsewhere, below the sun disc is recorded one of four cities in the kingdom of Judah: Hebron, Ziph, Socho or Mmst.

According to the archaeologists, the Arnona site is dated to a period in which the Bible documents tumultuous upheavals, including the failed Assyrian King Sennacherib campaign to conquer Jerusalem in the days of King Hezekiah. The artifacts at the site, including the stamped seals, show that taxation likely remained uninterrupted during this period.

With the destruction of the Kingdom of Judah in 586 BCE and Babylonian exile, the site was abandoned, said the researchers. However, shortly thereafter, “the site was resettled and administrative activity resumed. During this time governmental activity at the site was connected to the Judean province upon the Return to Zion in 538 BCE under the auspices of the Achaemenid Persian Empire, which then ruled over the entire ancient Near East and Central Asia.”

“These artificial stone hills have been identified at several sites in Jerusalem and are a phenomenon of the end of the First Temple period and have aroused the curiosity and fascination of Jerusalem researchers since the beginning of archaeological research in the area,” said the archaeologists.

“Nevertheless, the reason for the huge effort made in stacking them over many acres remains an unresolved archaeological mystery,” they said.

-www.timesofisrael.com, 22 July 2020

Commentary: It is virtually impossible to start a building project in Israel without uncovering history.

We note that the destruction of historical Jewish identity was made complete, to fulfill the words of Jesus: “There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down” (Matthew 24:2b).

This is quite unusual, because throughout the European continent, one can find many buildings dating back to Jesus’ time. Aqueducts, colosseums, catacombs, and artwork testify to the glory of the Roman Empire.

The future, however, belongs to Jerusalem. “Thou shalt arise, and have mercy upon Zion: for the time to favour her, yea, the set time, is come. For thy servants take pleasure in her stones, and favour the dust thereof. So the heathen shall fear the name of the Lord, and all the kings of the earth thy glory. When the Lord shall build up Zion, he shall appear in his glory” (Psalm 102: 13-16). 7312

License Denied for Evangelical TV Channel

The HOT cable TV provider has declined to request a new license for the Shelanu TV Evangelical channel, after the Council for Cable and Satellite Broadcasting suspended its original license.

Shelanu TV, which critics accused of seeking to proselytize Jews, is now left without a cable TV provider in the near future, but says it will move to an internet platform, insisting it will “not be silenced.”

In a statement to the press, Ron Cantor, a spokesman for Shelanu TV and a prominent figure among so-called Messianic Jews in Israel, again denied the allegations made by council chairman Asher Biton that Shelanu TV's original license request had sought to cover up its intention of appealing to Jewish Israelis.

Shelanu TV's license was granted in April, and the commencement of its broadcasts sparked criticism when it became clear that its parent organization, GOD TV, is dedicated to preaching the Christian gospel and the task of the “Great Commission,” a doctrine in Christian theology to gain disciples for Christianity and to preach the religion to non-Christians.

In a video announcing the new channel, GOD TV CEO Ward Simpson stated, “God has supernaturally opened the door for us

Commentary: There is no law against Hinduism, Buddhism, Islam, or atheism. But strangely, when it comes to Christianity, Jews in Israel are frightened. That, however, is not surprising, because the Jewish people have suffered greatly under “Christian” regimes—for 2,000 years—with the diabolical epitome occurring under Hitler’s Germany, when 6 million Jews were systematically murdered.

Nevertheless, Jesus said, “I will build my church.” He continues to do so, as reliable reports come to us indicating that many Jews are turning to Jesus. That is the Church Jesus is building, and no law has the power to make it cease or to cancel a “license.”

TURKEY

Erdogan Vows to Liberate Al-Aqsa

Turkey’s President Recep Tayyip Erdogan vowed to “liberate al-Aqsa mosque” from Israel after “resurrecting Hagia Sophia” as a mosque.

The decision to change the status of the ancient Hagia Sophia church, which had been transformed into a mosque in 1453 and then into a museum in 1934, was made controversially.

The speech, which was in Turkish, was translated slightly differently to Arabic and English, apparently as a way to hide part of Ankara’s full views on how it has linked Hagia Sophia to a wider agenda.

In Arabic the speech says that turning Hagia Sophia into a mosque is part of the “return of freedom to al-Aqsa,” essentially meaning Israel should be ejected from controlling Jerusalem’s Old City where al-Aqsa is located.

Turkey is seeking to supplant Saudi Arabia and other countries in the region, such as Egypt and Jordan, as the main determiner of what is “Islamic.”

One day, Turkey could even aim its sights at Jerusalem. The speech about Hagia Sophia clearly indicated this is on the agenda in the future.

-www.jpost.com, 11 July 2020

Commentary: Turkey's President Erdogan is a fierce promoter of Islam, and is working feverishly to separate his nation from European dominion and influence.

But the real aim, states the article by Seth Frantzman, is Jerusalem, where the Al-Aqsa mosque is located.

Israel needs to be alert 24/7. Jerusalem is the heart of Israel. It is the city that is patterned after the one in heaven. We read in Revelation 21:1-2: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband." That is the real future of Jerusalem—not Mr. Erdogan's declaration, threats, or imagination. The ultimate authority is the Creator, the Redeemer, as we read in Isaiah 59:20: "And the Redeemer shall come to Zion, and unto them that turn from transgression in Jacob, saith the Lord." 7306

World's First 3D-Printed Steak

Israeli foodies will be able to take a bite out of the world's first 3D-printed plant-based steak later this year thanks to a breakthrough in food technology.

Redefine Meat, an Israeli company based in Rehovot, has unveiled the "Alt-Steak," which it says replicates the texture, flavor and appearance of real meat via the use of a patent-pending 3D printing technology.

Creating a realistic meatless steak is widely considered to be the holy grail of the alternative meat industry—one that has long eluded food scientists. Plant-based ground meat varieties have been available on the market for several years but mimicking an actual cut of meat—with its distinctive combination of fat, muscle, sinew and mouth-feel—has proved to be a much greater challenge.

Working together with leading chefs, food technologists and butchers, Redefine Meat digitally mapped over 70 sensorial parameters to craft its meatless wonder. It then used a proprietary industrial-scale 3D food printer and multiple materials to print the steak, layer by layer. The steak itself is made out of a combination of soy and pea proteins, coconut fat and sunflower oil, along with natural colors and flavors.

"[It will be] in supermarkets in 2022 but already in restaurants in Israel this year, and in restaurants in Europe early next year," revealed Eshchar Ben-Shitrit, CEO and co-founder of Redefine Meat, adding that initially, the Alt-Steak will be roughly the same price as traditional meat equivalents.

Redefine Meat is not the only company hoping to revolutionize the food industry using groundbreaking advances in 3D printing.

As plant-based steaks prepare to hit restaurants later this year, other Israeli companies are hoping to print steaks made out of real meat that is also slaughter-free.

Cultured meat, more commonly known as lab-grown meat, could soon become as everyday as going to the supermarket. And Israel is at the forefront of technological innovation in this field.

"In terms of cell-based printed meat, yes, Israel absolutely is the leader," Olivia Fox Cabane, an alternative protein expert who is also the co-founder of KindEarth.Tech, told The Media Line.

Israel is definitely at the forefront to harvest the benefits.

The other side of the story is that mankind, in his inventiveness, attempts to bridge over the curse God pronounced to Adam after his fall: “Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field; In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return” (Genesis 3:18-19). The back-breaking work to produce food has virtually been eliminated by modern agriculture, machinery, technology, and science.

Here too we see man working toward independence from the Creator.

LEBANON

28 New Hezbollah Missile Launch Sites

There are at least 28 missile launching sites belonging to Hezbollah in civilian areas in the Lebanese capital of Beirut, a report by ALMA Research and Education Center has found.

According to the report, Hezbollah has an estimated 600 Fateh 110/M600 missiles, which have a range of up to 300 km., while improved models called “D’ Al-Ficar” have a range of up to 700 km.

“Almost all of the sites are in southern Beirut, an area controlled by Hezbollah, and are located in civilian neighborhoods, inside private houses, medical centers, churches, industrial sites, public offices, fast food chains, as well as in open spaces nearby, hence activating the ‘human shield’ tactic,” the report read.

And according to the report, “Based on our insight into Hezbollah’s action patterns these sites are available for immediate operational use.”

The group has expanded its arsenal with more than 130,000

NEWS IN BRIEF

ANTI-SEMITIC ‘ZOOM BOMB’

A virtual prayer session that included several Dallas-area synagogues was “Zoom bombed” by intruders shouting hate messages.

The incident took place on July 30, the Jewish fast day of Tisha B’Av.

The intruders, faces covered, shouted and typed comments such as “Kill All Jews, Bomb Israel” and “Hail (sic) Hitler,” Rabbi Ariel Rackovsky of Congregation Shaare Tefilla told the Dallas News. One continued to make the Nazi salute.

Some 100 people, ranging in age from preteens to 80 years old, were on the Zoom call at the time. After about five minutes the rabbis terminated the call and started a new one. One of the rabbis called the FBI, according to the report.

rockets and missiles of all sorts of ranges and payloads.

Israel has reiterated several times that the transfer of any advanced weapons to Hezbollah is a redline for the Jewish state and that it will work to prevent any such movement.

-www.jpost.com, 13 July 2020

Commentary: Meanwhile, widespread news coverage of the explosion of 2,750 tons of ammonium nitrate stored in Beirut's port reveals the corruption and instability of this troubled state.

Hezbollah is a Shiite Muslim, militant group in Lebanon, with a security system, political organization, and social services. It is considered "a state within a state." Hezbollah has supported the Syrian government and has gained decades of experience in warfare. The Hezbollah organization was founded in the early 1980s, as part of an Iranian effort to secure Syria and Lebanon for its purposes. Hezbollah is designated as a terrorist entity by France, Spain, Germany, the USA, and other nations.

It is of interest that the missile launch sites are primarily located in civilian areas: medical centers, even churches and public offices. Hamas operates in Gaza on similar principles. But Israel knows the locations and will act accordingly when necessary. That's one of Israel's great advantages: being able to communicate in many different languages around the world. They know the plans of their enemies.

This is a great lesson for us Christians. We may read, hear, and see reports by various news media outlets, but when reading the prophetic Word, we know the purpose and the target of these things. Therefore, we too must be alert 24/7 for attacks of the enemy in the invisible world. But, the good news is that we believe in Jesus Christ and trust in Him, of whom Colossians 2:15 states: "And having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a show of them openly, triumphing over them in it."

ISRAEL

Reservists Drafted to Help Fight Coronavirus

Israel's parliament gave the government sweeping authorities to combat a resurgent coronavirus outbreak, weakening its own oversight over cabinet decisions as Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu warns of a possible second lockdown.

Israel plans to draft as many as 3,000 reservists to help rein in the coronavirus outbreak, the Defense Ministry said.

The reservists, most from the Home Front Command, will assist with epidemiological investigations and provide extra staffing for quarantine hotels, the ministry said. They'll also boost the command's presence in cities with a relatively large number of infections.

There are more than 72,000 confirmed coronavirus cases in Israel to date, including more than 530 fatalities. The plan to involve the military more was pushed by Israel's new coronavirus czar, who was appointed to try to formulate a coherent strategy to combat the surge in cases and deaths that followed Israel's reopening of its economy after a near-total lockdown.

-www.msn.com, 2 August 2020

Commentary: Israel's population stands at 8,675,000 (July 2020). Seventy-five percent are Jewish, with 76.9% born in Israel. Life expectancy stands at 83 years. Coronavirus deaths per 100,000 are listed at 6.90; thus, a very effective country in fighting the virus.

To draft the military into a coronavirus fighting force is certainly to be commended. Recently, the Knesset voted to increase the fine to 500 shekels ($146) for those who violate the law by not wearing masks in public places.

NEWS IN BRIEF

JEWS BLAMED FOR VIRUS

A Polish-language newspaper in Toronto has published an article blaming Jews for the coronavirus pandemic.

According to B'nai Brith, the article blamed the coronavirus pandemic on the Jewish community, claimed Jews were responsible for the creation of ISIS, and called Israel the source of the world's problems and "an emanation of the Devil himself."

The article also claimed that communist revolutionary Vladimir Lenin, Nazi propagandist Joseph Goebbels and Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan were actually Jewish.

“In the first year of Cyrus the king the same Cyrus the king made a decree concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, Let the house be builded, the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be strongly laid; the height thereof threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits” (Ezra 6:3).

BY ARNO FROESE

When reading the historic document of the Jews' return to the Promised Land, we must note the words in chapter 1, verse 1, “the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia.” Thus, the originator of the plan to return the Jews from Babylonian captivity was God. He implements His plan, and He fulfills His prophetic Word. And it is He who stirred the spirit of the king.

We also take note that King Cyrus of Persia had global dominion: “The LORD God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth” (verse 2). What was the purpose, the aim, the goal? To send the Jews back to Jerusalem to build the temple on Mt. Moriah. This message was clearly given to the Jews dwelling in Persia, today's Iran.

Quite obviously, today's Persia (Iran) is being stirred by the god of this world, the one who opposes fulfillment of Bible prophecy. Thus, their repetitious call for the eradication of the Zionist State.

Reading the first six chapters of Ezra, we notice that when they returned to Jerusalem to build the temple, the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin appeared. The end of chapter 4 reads: “Then ceased the work of the house of God which is at Jerusalem.”

The adversaries were dealing very smartly when they wrote to the king of Persia, accusing the Jews of building a city. Nothing was mentioned about the temple. Apparently, the enemies knew that the city, the temple, and the Jews were synonymous. You can't divide one from the other. That, incidentally, is Israel's challenge today.

The Temple Mount is occupied by Arab Muslims. The city of Jerusalem as a whole is not recognized by the rest of the world as the capital of the State of Israel. Obviously, they reject Scripture's outline of Israel's territory.

In the story of Ezra's records, we see that the Jews finally did what they were supposed to do: build the temple regardless of the opposition.

In today's world, the enemies of Israel have isolated the word "Zion" and "Zionist" from the Jews. The Times of Israel reports:

When Iran speaks of wiping Israel off the map, it doesn't mean the mass slaughter of the country's Jews but rather eliminating the Jewish state's "imposed regime," Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei said.

-www.timesofisrael.com, 15 November 2019

And the military leader makes it clear:

Four decades on from Iran's Islamic revolution, "we have managed to obtain the capacity to destroy the impostor Zionist regime," Major General Hossein Salami was quoted saying by the IRGC's Sepah news site.

-www.timesofisrael.com

JewishPress.com, which reports on anti-Semitism in Canada, headlines an article, 'Zionists Not Welcome':

Foodbenders' social media posts have said "police brutality is an Israeli export" and "Zionists are Nazis," and included hashtags such as #intifada. Following complaints, Instagram shuttered the restaurant's account.

"By stating that Zionists are not welcome to its store, this business is basically stating that Jewish people are not welcome," Rabbi Meyer May, the center's executive director, said in a statement. "This is clear anti-Semitism, extremely discriminatory and unacceptable."

Taking legal action, the International Legal Forum (ILF) has filed a complaint with the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario, charging that based on the guidelines of the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance's (IHRA) working definition of anti-Semitism, Kimberly Hawkins, the owner, should be charged with anti-Semitic discrimination.

"IHRA acknowledges and incorporates the connection between Jews and Jewish national identity, and its fulfillment in the Jewish nation state, as a central expression of Jewish identity, similar to observance of Jewish holidays and religious practices such as dietary laws, Sabbath and other," the ILF stated.

Euphemistic manifestations of hatred, such as calls against Zionists instead of Jews, enable the rise in hateful expressions towards Jews and the increase in anti-Semitism, while supposedly evading violating modern norms against discrimination, violence or incitement on racial or religious grounds. IHRA bridges this gap, and links anti-Zionism to anti-Semitism, the lawfare organization explained.

9 July 2020

Canada—the world's second largest country, known for its peace-loving citizens—distinguishes itself from its southern neighbor, the USA, as a peaceful and secure country with about one-third of the crime rate. But there too, anti-Semitism flourishes, hidden under the label of "anti-Zionism."

What will be the outcome? The fulfillment of Isaiah 65:17-19: "For, behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind. But be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy. And I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people: and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying." (MC)

Needed: A New Van

By David Phillips

Project Manager

A dozen pair of eyes eagerly watched me as I walked back from checking on the van, all with the same unspoken question: “Will we be able to go on our weekly beach walk excursion today?” I faced each one and broke the news to them, “I’m sorry, the van has broken down...again. This time it will take a day or two to get fixed. One of the sensors has gone out.” With great disappointment, these dear people realized that once again, this meant no beach walk for them. But, what could be done about it? For the staff, it also meant that we now couldn’t run the errands we greatly needed to.

Especially during this period of COVID-19, this is the residents’ only chance to leave Ebenezer and enjoy a walk and breathe fresh air, along with some of the team members. They must also remain in a tightly knit group, to prevent any stranger from approaching them—keeping them from the possibility of exposure to the coronavirus. There was life before COVID-19, and there will be life during and after it. We have our daily routines, with or without corona. Often, we must use our own transportation. Right now, we are even more dependent upon our van, as it is the only vehicle the Ebenezer Home owns. But this is “my family”—my grandmas and grandpas in Yeshua. Ebenezer desperately needs a vehicle that does not break down on us every few months!

This is where you can help us make the needed change. It's for the benefit of the residents and Ebenezer family—your family.

During the corona emergency period, Israel has gone through times where there was no public transportation—due to risk of infection to the public. For a country which heavily depends upon public transportation, this becomes a real challenge. Ebenezer has to provide transportation for staff members, taking them back and forth from work. Many do not own a personal vehicle. As you can imagine, it becomes really problematic when the Home's only vehicle breaks down constantly.

You can help make a difference for both residents and staff, by helping us purchase a much-needed, new and reliable vehicle for the Home! With a new van, we will not have to constantly fix our old one, and will be able to drive safely with our residents and nursing staff. We have done the research and need to raise $87,300 to cover the costs. This includes heavy taxes in Israel, and special equipment needed. Incidentally, we have already collected just over $2,800. Someone donated their old, neglected silverware, coin collections and jewelry, which we could in turn sell to help raise funds for the new vehicle we really need. That's one way to help.

Regular donations can be sent to Midnight Call Ministries (with Ebenezer specified in the Note line). Or, if you have a collection you wish to donate, please send them to:
